Are we to aftere Another War?

Some political prophets aver that we shall Be that as it may, the battle waged by medical selence sgainst disease will never cease until we arrive at that utoplan epoch when the human family shall cease to be afflicted with bodily ailments. One of the most potent weapons which the armory of meetelnes furnishes, is Hastetter's Stomach Bitters, which is of special ntillty as a family remedy, as it is adapted to the immediate relief and ultimate cure of those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels which are of commonest occurrence. Indigestion, biliousness and conscipution are inseparable companions, and these allments are completely cradicated by the Bitters. But the remedia' scope of this superintively wholesome and genial medicine takes in also nervous aliments; rhenmatism and kidney troubles; its action in three, as in the other complaints, being characterized by unequaled thoroughness.

The Magazine of American History opens its twenty-first volume with a strong January number. The leading article, "Historic Homes and Land marks," by the Editor, is an animated, informing and exceedingly timely account of the romantic scenes and stirring events which made the whole "West End" portion of New City his toric ground. This paper, which is styled " Chapter I.," is congned chiefly to Washington Heights and its associations, and is richly illustrated from recent photographs by Miss Catherine Weed Barnes, showing the present condition of the antique homes, relies. and places of interest. The frotis piece, a superb portrait of General Na thanael Greene, from one of Dr. Emmet's rare English engravings, is peculiarly appropriate to Mrs. Lamb's vivid description of the battle on these heights, as he commanded the vanguard of Washington's forces on that occasion. With its stores of varied information and and its careful editing, the value of this popular and prosper ous magazine for permanent preservation becomes more distinctly apparent with every monthly issue. The "Washinton Number," issued in December, went through two editions very swiftly, and a third edition is now called for. Price, $5.000 a year. Published at 743 Broadway, New York City.

Ayer's Almstone for 1889, published by Dr. J. C. Aver & Co., Lowell, Mass., comes to us in the shape of a nest presentation book of about five hundred pages, being made up of numerous editions calculated for the latitudes of many lands. A score or more of nationalities are addressed in their own anguages in this volume, and could they all be heard clamoring together for Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills what a Babel would break forth! Aver's Almanse, in its familiar yellow cover, has long been known as the most accurate and reliable of its kind and if any one is ignorant of the superior merits of Ayer's medicines, and suffers it is not the fault of this enterpaising firm, who scatter their "leaves" be the million, "for the healing of the nations." The Finest Yet.

We refer to The Russell & Morgan Printing Company's calendar 1889, a copy of which is now before us. The calendar consists of twelve sheets (one for each month) of coated board, size 12x7% inches, printed in nine to twelve colors and gold from engraved metal plates costing over $2,000 Each page is entirely differon from the others, and all are new and original designs illustrating the origin and use of playing cards, etc.

January opens with the story of the playing card-its birthplace: "Midst 20070 of invention. We advise as to patent solity free of churse and we make NO CHARGE TMLESS PAPENT IS SECURED and references to actual clients in your own State, County, City or Town, write to austere walls of a convent gray," which is carried through by different representations and descriptions to the end, December showing the "house at cards" and a view of the Rossell & Morgan Printing Company's building. the largest playing-card factory on

This is the most elaborate calendar ever produced, and while The Russell & Morgan Company have not forgotten to work in a fair amount of advertising pertinent to their business, the calendar itself is a most practical one The figures are large and plain, and on the back of the December sheet is furnished a full commercial catendar for the years 1889 and 1890, with the consecutive figures so useful to bookkeepers and business men who wish to make a "pote" of time.

A notice printed on the face of the calendar advises us that sample copies will be mailed to any address upon receipt of twenty-five cents.
